Hinako Ono (Cover Design)

What if a disaster occurs? How would you act to protect your life and the lives of others? Is there a safe place where you could go?

I tried to create a design which encourages citizens to keep this booklet close at hand so it can be taken out quickly in an emergency. The navy-blue background and vermillion binding thread are inspired by the colors of Saganaka cotton. Japanese binding also known as "hemp leaf binding." This binding method has the meaning of warding off evil and praying for the growth of children. The back cover of the booklet is designed in the motif of cherry blossoms and cosmos, the official trees and flowers of Kizugawa City. Through this design, the booklet is filled with wishes for a safe life and peace of mind for all.

WARNING

The maps in this publication use Kizugawa City residential map data issued by this company in 2022. Although all due care was exercised in the creation of this publication, the amount of data is very large and actual conditions change daily. Therefore, the map may not always be exactly accurate. In addition, please note that, in order to prioritize legibility, official names, etc. may have been shortened or adapted.
